Wilderness Solo

This eight-day wilderness camping retreat, which includes a three-day solo, is designed to mark a transition in the student’s program through an integration of learning, connections to land and place, and through a solo experience. In context of solitude and deep connection with nature, the course seeks to integrate the first year of learning, assisting students in finding a path, clarifying responsibility in reciprocity with the earth, and illuminating the heart of service to the community. Community work and ritual surround and support this important solo experience. Course fee. Required for MA Resilient Leadership: Sustainable Systems track; Elective for MA Resilient Leadership: Climate Justice track.

Course Number: ENV665
Unit: 3.0
Program: Environmental Studies