Religions of Himalayan Territories II

A continuation of Religions of the Himalayan Territories I, this module is designed to continue giving students a general introduction to major religions that exist in the region. Bhutanese students will become familiar with different forms of Buddhism and also learn about alternative approaches to religion. In the module, students will gain an understanding of significant aspects of the theoretical, practical, and social expressions of these religions, allowing the students to appreciate both similarities and differences between Buddhism and other traditions. Understanding and appreciating these similarities and differences will allow students to empathize better with peoples of the Himalayan region, particularly other Buddhists, and will thus be in a better position to understand and collaborate with others in their country, or region, as well as internationally.

Course Number: BHIM203
Unit: 3.0
Program: Study Abroad