

Art Therapy Theory and Applications

This course offers a general survey of the literature, theories, and practices of art therapy with various client populations. Students will investigate the general literature concerning the practice of art therapy and role of the art therapist when working with various populations (mental health, expressive therapies, community-based). A personal commitment to the exploration of one's own creative process is highly stressed. Prerequisite: ATH230.

Course Number: ATH330

Unit: 3.0

Program: UNDG Art Therapy