Transpersonal Art Therapy Concentration

MA in Clinical Mental Health Counseling

As a transdisciplinary profession, art therapy involves intensive studies in the visual arts, the behavioral sciences, and the development of adept counseling skills. Naropa’s innovative, experiential approach to training art therapists and counselors integrates transpersonal psychology with mindfulness meditation practice, the acquisition of refined clinical skills, and applied community-based studio methods. Our goal is for our students to become culturally competent, clinically astute, socially engaged counselors, artists, and art therapists.

This 62-credit Transpersonal Art Therapy concentration, approved by the American Art Therapy Association, consists of specific art therapy course work combined with counseling and contemplative studies training. Throughout the program, students also participate in 190 direct art contact hours of studio-based work.

Degree Requirements

First year, fall
- CNSA600 Transpersonal Art Therapy Orientation Seminar (noncredit)
- CNSA604 Foundations of Art Therapy: Studio and Practicum (3)
- CNST621 Psychology of Meditation I: Mindfulness Training (3)
- CNSA631 Counseling & Helping Relationships I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3)
- CNSA634 History and Theory of Art Therapy (3)

First year, spring
- CNSA661 Counseling & Helping Relationships II: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3)
- CNSA665 Civic Engagement Studio Practicum (noncredit)
- CNST670 Transpersonal Psychology (3) or
- CNST673 Jungian Psychology: Transpersonal Foundations and Central Concepts (3)
- CNST720 Meditation Practicum I: Cultivating Awareness (1)
- CNSA751 Group Counseling: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3)

Second year, fall
- CNST610 Social & Multicultural Foundations (3)
- CNST620 Human Growth and Development (3)
- CNSA734 Counseling for Child & Adolescent Populations (for Transpersonal Art Therapy students) (3)
- CNST740 Diagnostic Psychopathology (2)

Second year, spring
- CNSA624 Art Therapy Studio: Process and Materials (2)
- CNST700 Assessment (3)

Third year, fall
- CNSA754 Counseling for Adult Populations (for Transpersonal Art Therapy Students) (3)
- CNST790 Counseling Practicum (3)

Third year, spring
- CNST710 Research and Program Evaluation (3)
- CNSA871 Internship I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (2)
- CNSA801 Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.5)
- CNSA824 Internship Studio Methods I (1.5)

Total Credits 62

Course Listings

CNSA569
Art Therapy Perspectives for non-Majors (2.0)
Providing a detailed survey of the field of art therapy, this course covers a wide range of topics and offers broad-based exposure to the theory and practice of art therapy. MA only; BA seniors with instructor permission. Materials fee. Cross-listed as CNSA369.

CNSA600
Transpersonal Art Therapy Orientation Seminar (0.0)
This orientation seminar is designed to give new students a thoughtful and appropriate introduction to their cohort and to the graduate Transpersonal Art Therapy program. This concentrated experience provides an opportunity for the incoming class to meet the art therapy faculty and academic advisor and to experience an introduction to the art therapy program. There is discussion on how meditation is seated in the program, the academic standards expected within the program, and resources for succeeding in the program including navigating the library, ways of thinking about diversity, contemplative education, and the importance of a personal artist identity. Required for Art Therapy students. Course fee.

CNSA604
Foundations of Art Therapy (3.0)
This course focuses on studio foundations in art therapy by investigating numerous in-class art assignments in conjunction with a studio practicum. The studio foundations course work examines practical applications of art therapy that focus on the therapeutic relationships and various artistic techniques that support change and transformation. Development of observation and therapeutic communication/counseling skills are stressed throughout the semester. The studio practicum material covers basic information on how to set up, manage, and fund an art studio. During the semester, students fulfill fifty service hours in the Naropa Community...
Art Studio. Active participation in socially engaged, community-based arts, along with service learning values, is a key aspect of the course. Course and materials fee.

CNSA624
Art Therapy Studio: Process and Materials (2.0)
Art-based research combined with contemplative practice are carefully integrated into the investigation of various art processes and materials throughout the semester. The open studio model is followed, allowing for students to practice mindfulness through process painting, drawing, and sculpture projects. Commitment to personal and transpersonal imagery is encouraged as an essential part of understanding one’s identity as an artist, the purpose of the therapeutic community, and contemplative models for practicing studio art therapy. Prerequisites: CNSA604 and CNSA634. AT only. Materials Fee.

CNSA631
Counseling & Helping Relationships I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other. Prerequisite: CNSA631.

CNSA665
Civic Engagement Studio Practicum (0.0)
A fifty-hour practicum that allows students to work with various groups from the local community in the Naropa Community Art Studio. Civic responsibility, service learning values, and cultural/social interventions through art and the mentorship role are stressed throughout the semester. Course and materials fee. Prerequisites: CNSA604 and CNSA634. AT only.

CNSA734
Counseling for Child and Adolescent Populations: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.0)
An examination of the psychological, psychosocial, cultural, cognitive, creative, and spiritual development of children from birth through adolescence to age nineteen as it relates to the practice of counseling and art therapy. Through readings, discussion, practice sessions with children, experiential exercises, and assignments, students focus on understanding development, assessment including art-based assessments, attachment theory, approaches to treatment, cultural competency, and the practice of counseling and art therapy with a variety of child and adolescent populations. AT only. Materials fee. Prerequisite: CNSA751.

CNSA751
Group Counseling: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.0)
This course addresses the theory and practice of group counseling through various didactic and experiential methods. The following counseling and art therapy topics are addressed throughout the semester: group ethics; group dynamics and process; stages of group development; levels of intervention; curative factors of group work; contemplative practice applications; group resistance and defenses; cultural competency; termination practices; and the use of art-based interventions and processes for specific populations. Additionally, special attention is devoted to the family as a group. Prerequisites: CNSA604, CNST631, and CNSA634. Course and materials fee. AT only.

CNSA754
Counseling for Adult Populations: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.0)
This course addresses clinical approaches to working with adult populations from specific DSM-IV categories and with families. Each class offers a population-specific lecture, case material, and general art therapy interventions. Students have the opportunity to increase their understanding of art therapy assessment by engaging in dyad/studio sessions with each other. Organization of treatment plans, session documentation, and assessment for adult populations are examined. The Family Systems portion of the class offers an
CNSA790
Counseling Practicum (3.0)
Required of all second-year students, the counseling practicum provides for the continued development of counseling skills through fieldwork at a community agency with on-site consultation and supervision. The practicum is designed to provide a supportive and instructional forum for students’ initial experiences working with clients in community settings. Students also study ethical guidelines relating to the counseling profession. The course includes secondary group supervision to support the practicum fieldwork experience. In secondary group supervision, students discuss professional and personal issues as they relate to their development as beginning counselors. Discussion topics include client populations served, client transference and therapist countertransference, case presentations, agency structure and organization, and community resources. Prerequisite: CNST631, CNST661, and CNSA665.

CNSA801
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.5)
Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice provides an instructional, supportive forum for students practicing counseling and art therapy in agency settings. One half of each class meeting is devoted to case consultation and secondary supervision in addition to the primary supervisory responsibilities of the on-site supervisor. Students study the ethical codes, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling and art therapy, including standards of practice and clients rights; confidentiality and mandatory reporting; informed consent; assessment and treatment planning; documentation and record keeping; boundary violations/dual relationships; therapeutic technique and style; cultural competency; transference and countertransference; and ownership of artwork. Students demonstrate the applied integration of theoretical material by preparing a written case study and regularly presenting case material during classes. Prerequisites: CNST790 and all required Art Therapy and Transpersonal Counseling Psychology courses. AT only.

CNSA802
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice II: Transpersonal Art Therapy (3.5)
This weekly seminar continues the discussion on professional issues related to assessment, treatment planning, documentation, clarification and application of theoretical orientation, transference and countertransference, and various legal and ethical topics. One half of each class meeting is devoted to case consultation and secondary supervision, in addition to the primary supervisory responsibilities of the on-site supervisor. Throughout the semester, students present case material, eventually formulating a coherent case study to be presented at the department orals. If one fails to successfully complete this class, both professional seminars I and II must be retaken together. Prerequisites: Successful completion of all required Art Therapy and Transpersonal Counseling Psychology courses. AT only.

CNSA824
Internship Studio Methods I (0.5)
This course complements the work covered in Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice by using various studio methods and virtual art techniques to explore the fieldwork experience in terms of transference and countertransference, parallel process, projective identification response, art making, self-care, ethics, and professional role identity. AT only. Materials fee.

CNSA844
Internship Studio Methods II (0.5)
This course complements the work covered in Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice by using various studio methods and techniques to explore the fieldwork experience in terms of transference and countertransference, parallel process, projective identification, ethics, and professional role identity. AT only. Prerequisite: CNSA824. Course fee.

CNSA871
Internship I: Transpersonal Art Therapy (2.0)
Students work as art therapy interns for a minimum of 700 hours in community agencies, hospitals, schools, and other institutions according to AATA guidelines. At least 350 hours of direct client contact is supplemented by treatment team meetings, documentation, clinical supervision, and in-service training. Prerequisites: CNSA871 and all required Art Therapy and Transpersonal Counseling Psychology courses.

CNSA891
Internship II: Transpersonal Art Therapy (2.0)
A continuation of CNSA871. If one fails to successfully complete this class, both Internship I and II must be retaken in sequence. AT Only.

CNSM601
Gestalt I: Awareness (3.0)
The foundations of Gestalt awareness are explored experientially with individual, dyadic, and group exercises. Central concepts of wholeness, present-centered awareness, self-responsibility, body awareness, contact, and boundary disturbances are introduced. The basic form of a Gestalt experiment is demonstrated, and the stages of the process are learned. Transpersonal roots, community building, and development of the I-Thou relationship as the basis of therapeutic work are emphasized. Program students only.

CNSM601E
Gestalt I: Awareness (3.0)
The foundations of Gestalt awareness are explored experientially with individual, dyadic, and group exercises. Central concepts of wholeness, present-centered awareness, self-responsibility, body
Working with groups is both an art and a science; therefore, Transpersonal Counseling (1.0)
Group Counseling: Lecture- Mindfulness-based
CNSM751
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students' professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other.

CNSM651
Gestalt II: Experiment (3.0)
Demonstrations of individual and group experiments are followed by didactic learning that further explores the central Gestalt themes. The concepts of organicity, figure-ground perceptual fields, polarities, top-dog/underdog, the four explosions, contact boundary, and satisfaction/frustration are explored. The process of a therapeutic experiment is introduced, and students learn to identify stages of a Gestalt working. Students work under the supervision of the teacher. If this class is not successfully completed, both Gestalt I and Gestalt II must be retaken together. Prerequisite: CNSM601.

CNSM651E
Gestalt II: Experiment (3.0)
Demonstrations of individual and group experiments are followed by didactic learning that further explores the central Gestalt themes. The concepts of organicity, figure-ground perceptual fields, polarities, top-dog/underdog, the four explosions, contact boundary, and satisfaction/frustration are explored. The process of a therapeutic experiment is introduced, and students learn to identify stages of a Gestalt working. Students work under the supervision of the teacher. If this class is not successfully completed, both Gestalt I and Gestalt II must be retaken together. Prerequisite: CNSM601E.

CNSM661E
Counseling & Helping Relationships II: Mindfulness- based Transpersonal Counseling (3.0)

CNSM751
Group Counseling: Lecture- Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (1.0)
Working with groups is both an art and a science; therefore, this lecture course is taught in conjunction with CNSM752, an experiential course. This course teaches a combination of techniques drawn from Gestalt, existential, psychodynamic, systems, and other approaches to group therapy. Topics discussed include the following: general group theory; varieties of group therapy; issues involved in starting a group; stages of group development; levels of intervention in groups (interpersonal, intrapersonal, and group); transference, countertransference, and authentic relatedness in groups; resistance and defenses in groups; use of dreams in groups; group maintenance; multicultural issues in groups; and closure exercises and experiences. Prerequisite: CNSM752.

CNSM751E
Group Counseling: Lecture- Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (1.0)
In this course, students practice a combination of techniques drawn from Gestalt, existential, psychodynamics, systems, and other approaches to group therapy. Skills to be practiced and/or discussed follow the themes concurrently taught in PSYT680. Themes include general theory; varieties of group therapy; group start-up issues; stages of group development; levels of intervention in groups; transference, countertransference, and authentic relatedness; resistance and defenses; use of dreams; group maintenance; multicultural issues; closure exercises, and experiences. Prerequisite: CNSM752. Co-requisite: CNSM751.

CNSM752
Group Counseling: Experiential- Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (2.0)
In this course, students practice a combination of techniques drawn from Gestalt, existential, psychodynamics, systems, and other approaches to group therapy. Skills to be practiced and/or discussed follow the themes concurrently taught in PSYT680. Themes include general theory; varieties of group therapy; group start-up issues; stages of group development; levels of intervention in groups; transference, countertransference, and authentic relatedness; resistance and defenses; use of dreams; group maintenance; multicultural issues; closure exercises, and experiences. Prerequisite: CNSM752. Co-requisite: CNSM751.
CNSM801
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice I: Mndflns-bsd Trnsprsnl Cnslg (2.0)
Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice I supports the learning experience of students enrolled in the internship placement. The class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling and psychotherapy in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference. Prerequisite: CNST790. Must be taken concurrently with CNSM871.

CNSM802E
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice II: Mndflns-bsd Trnsprsnl Csling (2.0)
Professional Orientation and Ethics II completes the learning experience of students enrolled in the internship placement. The class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling and psychotherapy in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference.

CNSM801E
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice I: Mndflns-bsd Trnsprsnl Cnslg (2.0)
Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice I supports the learning experience of students enrolled in the internship placement. The class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling and psychotherapy in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference. Prerequisite: CNST790E. Must be taken concurrently with CNSM871E.

CNSM802
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice II: Mndflns-bsd Trnsprsnl Csling (2.0)
Professional Orientation and Ethics II completes the learning experience of students enrolled in the internship placement. The class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling and psychotherapy in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference.

CNSM871
Internship I: Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (2.0)
The student works a total of 700 hours in community agency settings. Prerequisite: CNST790.

CNSM871E
Internship I: Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (2.0)
The student works a total of 700 hours in community agency settings. Prerequisite: CNST790E.

CNSM891
Internship II: Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (2.0)
A continuation of CNSM871.

CNSM891E
Internship II: Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (2.0)
A continuation of CNSM871.

CNST504E
Meditation Practicum I (3.0)
Drawing from both the Shambhala and Buddhist traditions, this course introduces students to the sitting practice and psychology of meditation. In these traditions, sitting meditation is the most direct means of training in mindfulness-awareness, which is the basis of contemplative psychotherapy and healing.

CNST506
Jungian Dream Work (2.0)
This course lays the foundation and develops an understanding of Jungian dream work from both a theoretical and a practical perspective. Emphasis is placed on the practical use of dreams in therapy and in one's own personal life. Students look at the structure and process of dreams, objective and subjective interpretations, associations and amplifications complexes as seen in dreams.
CNST510
Yoga and the Chakras (2.0)
Chakra awareness is intrinsic to the ancient discipline of Hatha yoga. Modern day studies reveal how these centers are gateways to understanding core imprints and fundamental aspects of our physical, emotional, and spiritual health. In this class, we practice a gentle form of traditional yoga as we cultivate a felt sense of the quality of flow of life force through each chakra. We learn to support the release and rebalancing of somatically held developmental patterns that no longer serve us. Class includes lecture and experiential exercises to enhance the relevance of this practice for self-healing and enrichment.

CNST521
Touching the Moment: Indelible Presence (2.0)
Mindfulness meditation—the art of “coming home to ourselves” is both a method of restoring our connection to the vitality of our own life, and a way to develop presence for our work with others. This five-day residential rural group retreat, appropriate for beginning as well as experienced meditators, includes shamatha sitting meditation, contemplative movement practice, experiential dharma art, periods of silence, work practice, mindful eating, and outdoor walking meditation. Individual meditation instruction as well as daily lectures and discussion are included. Extra fees apply.

CNST528
Counseling Loss, Grief, and Life Transitions (2.0)
This class familiarizes the student with grief and transition theory and trains them in individual and family grief counseling skills. Using lecture, discussion, and experiential exercises, the class supports students as they explore both their personal and family loss histories and develop a theoretical working basis for serving clients facing illness, aging, and bereavement. Course fee.

CNST532
Storytelling & Mythology (2.0)
This course examines the history and present use of the telling of stories as a healing method for individuals, families, and groups. Case material is used to describe the value of telling stories in therapy and of listening to the mythological themes, that so often weave in and out of a client’s personal story.

CNST543
Human Sexuality (2.0)
Too often, sexuality suffers the same fate in therapy as it does in this culture: it is hidden, not to be discussed, treated as irrelevant. Students examine issues related to sexuality that clients might bring to therapy, consciously or unconsciously. Students start by looking at what they as therapists bring to their work and explore personal and cultural aspects of sex, touch, intimacy, passion, the body, erotica and pornography, developmental issues, alternative lifestyles, transpersonal elements, and more. Guest speakers are included.

CNST575
Taming the Wild Horse: Riding the Energy of Emotions (2.0)
Learning to work with emotions can be challenging, even for experienced meditators. This five-day residential rural group retreat is designed to strengthen meditative tools for understanding and healing emotional struggle. Especially applicable for people working in the helping professions who wish to deepen compassion for self and others, the retreat includes “sending and taking” meditation (tonglen); mindfulness-awareness sitting practice (shamatha); contemplative interactive exercises; periods of silence; mindful eating practice; and outdoor walking meditation. Individual meditation instruction as well as daily lectures and discussions are included. This retreat can be challenging because practicing with emotions can be challenging. The instructor strongly recommends that participants have some prior meditation intensive experience (e.g., a weekend meditation program) prior to attending this retreat. Extra fees apply.

CNST596W
Special Topics in Transpersonal Counseling Psychology (1.0)
Right Use of Power: Ethics with Wisdom, Power with Heart As you step more and more fully into your role as a counselor, you step more and more fully into your relationship with your increased power and influence. The power difference in your client relationships brings opportunities for healing and growth for your clients. Power also has many challenging aspects. The core of the course is learning about the four shadow impacts of increased power and how to mediate them. Through talks and activities you will also find your power style, practice a simple process for resolving conflict and repairing torn relationships, look at ethics through the larger lens of power, and learn how to stay in your heart while standing in your strength.

CNST610
Social and Multicultural Foundations (3.0)
This survey course explores the role of the counselor embedded in the milieu of the social and cultural realities of society. Issues concerning work with families from diverse cultures are discussed, including the counselor’s role in social justice, advocacy and conflict resolution, cultural awareness, the nature of biases, prejudices, processes of intentional and unintentional oppression and discrimination, and other culturally supported behaviors that are detrimental to the growth of the human spirit, mind, or body.

CNST610E
Social and Multicultural Foundations (3.0)
This survey course explores the role of the counselor embedded in the milieu of the social and cultural realities of society. Issues concerning work with families from diverse cultures are discussed, including the counselor’s role in social justice, advocacy and conflict resolution, cultural awareness, the nature of biases, prejudices, processes of intentional and unintentional oppression and discrimination, and other culturally supported behaviors that are detrimental to the growth of the human spirit, mind, or body.
CNST620
Human Growth and Development (3.0)
This course provides an advanced study of human development from prenatal experience through the life span, including individual and family development, and theories of learning and personality development, including current research of neurobiological behavior. Students develop an intellectual and theoretical knowledge of human behavior, including an understanding of developmental crisis, disability, exceptional abilities, and psychopathology, as well as optimal wellness. Situational, cultural, and environmental factors that affect both normal and abnormal behavior are explored, including effects of crisis, disasters, and other trauma-causing events. Theories and models of individual, cultural, couples, family, and community resilience are covered. Theories and etiology of addictions, including strategies for prevention, intervention, and treatment are explored. Legal and ethical considerations are discussed throughout the course. Students deepen their understanding and use of human development in the therapeutic setting.

CNST620E
Human Growth and Development (3.0)
This course provides an advanced study of human development from prenatal experience through the life span, including individual and family development, and theories of learning and personality development, including current research of neurobiological behavior. Students develop an intellectual and theoretical knowledge of human behavior, including an understanding of developmental crisis, disability, exceptional abilities, and psychopathology, as well as optimal wellness. Situational, cultural, and environmental factors that affect both normal and abnormal behavior are explored, including effects of crisis, disasters, and other trauma-causing events. Theories and models of individual, cultural, couples, family, and community resilience are covered. Theories and etiology of addictions, including strategies for prevention, intervention, and treatment are explored. Legal and ethical considerations are discussed throughout the course. Students deepen their understanding and use of human development in the therapeutic setting.

CNST621
Psychology of Meditation I: Mindfulness Training (3.0)
Mindfulness, the ability to be fully present, is essential for the skillful counselor. This course introduces the practice of mindful breathing (shamatha-vipashyana) sitting meditation drawn from the Buddhist tradition as a means of developing moment-to-moment awareness. Methods for cultivating wakefulness within daily life situations are explored.

CNST621E
Psychology of Meditation I: Mindfulness Training (3.0)
Mindfulness, the ability to be fully present, is essential for the skillful counselor. This course introduces the practice of mindful breathing (shamatha-vipashyana) sitting meditation drawn from the Buddhist tradition as a means of developing moment-to-moment awareness. Methods for cultivating wakefulness within daily life situations are explored.

CNST625E
Mindful Chakra Yoga (0.5)
Chakra awareness is intrinsic to the ancient discipline of yoga. Modern day studies reveal how these embodied energy centers are gateways to understanding physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual well-being. We practice gentle hatha yoga and cultivate a felt sense of the quality of life force through each chakra.

CNST631
Counseling & Helping Relationships I (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other.

CNST631E
Counseling and Helping Relationships I (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other.

CNST646
Contemplative Voice Work: Sounding the Body-Mind (2.0)
This course is designed to be primarily experiential in nature. Each class begins with breathing and movement exercises, bringing awareness to the body and releasing habitual holding patterns that can inhibit vocal expression. The remainder of the class is spent in group, dyad, and individual work exploring techniques for vocal expression including sounding, toning, singing, and listening as a way to access and express the full range of the authentic voice. Students explore countertransference issues connected with particular vocal qualities and will experiment with “shadow” (not me) vocal sounds in order to develop a wider range of expression. Previous experience with singing is not required.
CNST653
Authentic Movement/Transpersonal (2.0)
Authentic Movement, a self-directed movement process employing the wisdom of the body as a pathway to awareness, provides direct experience of the individual and collective body as a vessel for integration, healing, transformation, and creative process. This course explores the ground form of Authentic Movement: the mover, witness, and the relationship between them. Students explore their own process while experiencing their therapeutic movement form. Though learning how to increase the authenticity of presence, students explore the ground of the healing relationship. Authentic Movement provides a model for life lived in authentic relationship to self, others, and community.

CNST661
Counseling & Helping Relationships II (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession, theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other. Prerequisite: CNST631.

CNST661E
Counseling & Helping Relationships II: Mindfulness-based Transpersonal Counseling (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession, theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other. Prerequisite: CNST631.

CNST663
Family Systems (2.0)
An entry-level examination of family process and family counseling. Drawing from a systems approach, students learn how to shift their focus from the individual to the dynamic interplay between members of a couple or family. Major schools of family therapy are studied. Experiential exercises and role-playing complement the theoretical learning. Students explore their own family of origin as a ground for working with others. Trauma in the family, such as child abuse and domestic violence, is also covered. Prerequisite: CNST620.

CNST663E
Family Systems (2.0)
An entry-level examination of family process and family counseling. Drawing from a systems approach, students learn how to shift their focus from the individual to the dynamic interplay between members of a couple or family. Major schools of family therapy are studied. Experiential exercises and role-playing complement the theoretical learning. Students explore their own family of origin as a ground for working with others. Trauma in the family, such as child abuse and domestic violence, is also covered. Prerequisite: CNST620.

CNST667E
Traditional Qigong: Cultivating Body and Mind (1.0)
Traditional Qigong comprises lineage-based practices which cultivate the body and mind simultaneously. Outer qigong techniques strengthen the muscular-skeletal system - joints, muscles, tendons, bones, and the spinal column. Inner qigong nourishes the internal organs and cultivates qi, or internal energy. Together, they support mental clarity, relaxation, and resilience. In each class, we will practice traditional qigong forms of movement and stillness, and discuss their lineage origins and their effects on health and presence.
research, multicultural diversity, and other areas. All sections blend intellectual exploration, practice, and self-reflection.

CNST671
Psychology of Meditation II (2.0)
This course builds on the foundation provided by CNST621. Topics presented through lectures and readings deepen the understanding of essential principles of meditative awareness. The specific focus of the course is the way meditation can support the counseling relationship.

CNST671E
Psychology of Meditation II (2.0)
This course builds on the foundation provided by CNST621. Topics presented through lectures and readings deepen the understanding of essential principles of meditative awareness. The specific focus of the course is the way meditation can support the counseling relationship.

CNST673
Jungian Psychology: Transpersonal Foundations and Central Concepts (3.0)
C.G. Jung, arguably the first transpersonal psychologist, presented a complex model of the psyche including the ego and its relationship to the unconscious and what he called the Self, which is the transpersonal component of the psyche. This course, blending Jungian transpersonal theory with applied clinical methods, examines these core precepts and other central tenets of Jung’s analytic psychology. Art therapy students can choose between either this class or CNST670. Prerequisites for art therapy students: CNSA604 and CNSA634. Prerequisite for counseling track students: CNST670.

CNST674E
Body Awareness (0.5)
Students engage in contemplative practices that are intended to increase their awareness of and relationship with their bodies. These may include traditional practices such as Yoga or Tai Chi, or other contemplative body-based practices. Each year a different guest instructor will be invited to engage the students in a body-based contemplative practice.

CNST699
Independent Study: Transpersonal Counseling (0.5-4.0)
This course offering is an opportunity for students to engage in in-depth, concentrated study with a particular faculty member for a semester. The design of study and course work are decided upon by the student and faculty member. Independent Studies will count for a standard 3 credits. If a variable credit (0.5-4 credits) Independent Study is desired, a student must receive additional approval. See the Independent Study Application for further details.

CNST700
Assessment (3.0)
An overview of individual and group approaches to assessment and evaluation, as these have developed historically from a traditional educational and psychological perspective through a more focused counseling perspective, with suggested applications appropriate for transpersonal and contemplative practitioners. The course covers basic topics of standardized and non-standardized testing and other assessment techniques including inventories, observations, and computer managed methods. Topics include psychometric statistics, factors related to the assessment and evaluation of individuals, groups, and special populations, case conceptualization, assessment, and diagnosis. Ethical and legal considerations are integrated throughout the course. Issues of diversity related to development of and selection of assessment instruments are also explored. Course fee.

CNST700E
Assessment (3.0)
An overview of individual and group approaches to assessment and evaluation, as these have developed historically from a traditional educational and psychological perspective through a more focused counseling perspective, with suggested applications appropriate for transpersonal and contemplative practitioners. The course covers basic topics of standardized and non-standardized testing and other assessment techniques including inventories, observations, and computer managed methods. Topics include psychometric statistics, factors related to the assessment and evaluation of individuals, groups, and special populations, case conceptualization, assessment, and diagnosis. Ethical and legal considerations are integrated throughout the course. Issues of diversity related to development of and selection of assessment instruments are also explored. Course fee.

CNST704
Transforming Addictions (2.0)
The physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual nature of alcohol and drug dependency and other addictive behaviors is explored. Assessment, therapeutic techniques, intervention, and in-patient and out-patient treatment are discussed. Students explore the contributions, as well as the strengths and weaknesses, of 12-step and other self-help recovery groups. The interrelationship of alcohol and drug abuse and other addictive behaviors with attachment and bonding disruptions in early childhood and childhood trauma is also investigated. Lectures, guest lectures, discussions, role-play, and other experiential techniques are used.

CNST710
Research and Program Evaluation (3.0)
This course is an introduction to the field of research methods and program evaluation as they apply to counseling psychology and psychotherapy. Topics include philosophical issues in research, including the importance of research, and opportunities and difficulties of conducting research in the counseling field. Research methods including qualitative, quantitative, single-case, action and outcome-based are surveyed. Principles, models, and applications of needs assessment, program evaluation, and use of findings to affect program modification, program evaluation, and use of findings to affect program modification are discussed. Technology, statistical methods, ethics and legal concerns, result reporting, and diversity are also topics of importance.
CNST710E Research and Program Evaluation (3.0)
This course is an introduction to the field of research methods and program evaluation as they apply to counseling psychology and psychotherapy. Topics include philosophical issues in research, including the importance of research, and opportunities and difficulties of conducting research in the counseling field. Research methods including qualitative, quantitative, single-case, action and outcome-based are surveyed. Principles, models, and applications of needs assessment, program evaluation, and use of findings to affect program modification are discussed. Technology, statistical methods, ethics and legal concerns, result reporting, and diversity are also topics of importance.

CNST711 Career Development (3.0)
This course addresses career counseling, career planning, and adult transition from a holistic and transpersonal point of view. Students learn the central theories of career development. Key assessment instruments for life/career planning and decision-making are reviewed. Career counseling skills and processes are explored, including those applicable to specific populations. The course explores the interrelationships between work, family, and other life roles, including the role of diversity and gender in career development. Ethical and legal considerations, career development programming and evaluation, occupational and labor market information, and web-based resources are studied.

CNST711E Career Development (3.0)
This course addresses career counseling, career planning, and adult transition from a holistic and transpersonal point of view. Students learn the central theories of career development. Key assessment instruments for life/career planning and decision-making are reviewed. Career counseling skills and processes are explored, including those applicable to specific populations. The course explores the interrelationships between work, family, and other life roles, including the role of diversity and gender in career development. Ethical and legal considerations, career development programming and evaluation, occupational and labor market information, and web-based resources are studied.

CNST720 Meditation Practicum I: Cultivating Awareness (1.0)
This course is designed to support students in continuing the practice of mindfulness-awareness meditation begun in CNST621E. Specific topics include applications of mindful-awareness to creativity, healing, and social action. Students meet in small groups for sitting and walking meditation sessions and discussion. Individual meditation instruction is provided. Prerequisite: CNST621E. Materials fee.

CNST720E Meditation Practicum I: Cultivating Awareness (1.0)
This course is designed to support students in continuing the practice of mindfulness-awareness meditation begun in CNST621E. Specific topics include applications of mindful-awareness to creativity, healing, and social action. Students meet in small groups for sitting and walking meditation sessions and discussion. Individual meditation instruction is provided. Prerequisite: CNST621E. Materials fee.

CNST730 Incest and Child Abuse (1.0)
An introduction to working with clients who have the experience of sexual abuse or incest in their history. We look at the definition, assessment, history, causes, effects, and treatment of sexual abuse and incest. Students explore their own process, the process of the client, and the process of healing in this area from both a personal and systemic perspective.

CNST740 Diagnostic Psychopathology (2.0)
An advanced overview of clinical thinking, perspective, and comprehension related to assessment, diagnosis, and treatment planning tasks required of a psychological professional working with clients representing a wide range of distress, disorders, mental illness, life crises, spiritual dilemmas, personal and developmental transitions, and sociocultural challenges.

CNST740E Diagnostic Psychopathology (2.0)
An advanced overview of clinical thinking, perspective, and comprehension related to assessment, diagnosis, and treatment planning tasks required of a psychological professional working with clients representing a wide range of distress, disorders, mental illness, life crises, spiritual dilemmas, personal and developmental transitions, and sociocultural challenges.

CNST753 Diagnostic Psychopathology II (1.0)
This course addresses adult development, family material, and clinical approaches to case conceptualization when working with various adult populations from specific DSM categories. Population-specific lectures address case material and clinical counseling/art therapy interventions. Organization of treatment plans, treatment implementation, documentation methods, adult development, cultural competency, and assessment for adult populations are examined throughout the semester. Prerequisite: CNST740. Materials fee.

CNST753E Diagnostic Psychopathology II (1.0)
This course addresses adult development, family material, and clinical approaches to case conceptualization when working with various adult populations from specific DSM categories. Population-specific lectures address case material and clinical counseling/art therapy interventions. Organization of treatment plans, treatment implementation, documentation methods, adult development, cultural competency, and assessment for adult populations are examined throughout the semester. Prerequisite: CNST740 [PSYT740].
CNST763
Gestalt Therapy and Breathwork (1.0)
Inhalation and exhalation, expansion and contraction, emulate the movement of all life. In Gestalt therapy, we utilize breath in awareness and in deepening the experiment. This class explores Gestalt theory and the use of breath in dealing with resistance, bringing about emotional presence, sustaining life’s vitality, energizing, and bringing about calmness.

CNST770
Meditation Practicum II: Developing Compassion (1.0)
The development of compassion as the basis of the counseling relationship is explored in this course through the practice of tonglen (exchange of self and other) from the Buddhist tradition. Specific topics include the application of tonglen to the healing process, death and bereavement, social action, and preventing burnout. Group sessions of sitting and walking meditations, discussions, and individual instruction are provided.

CNST770E
Meditation Practicum II: Developing Compassion (1.0)
The development of compassion as the basis of the counseling relationship is explored in this course through the practice of tonglen (exchange of self and other) from the Buddhist tradition. Specific topics include the application of tonglen to the healing process, death and bereavement, social action, and preventing burnout. Group sessions of sitting and walking meditations, discussions, and individual instruction are provided.

CNST771
Marriage and Couples Therapy (2.0)
This class focuses on developing a working knowledge of marriage therapy using different models, with emphases on diversity and Jungian couples therapy, as well as neurobiology and gender research. Students are asked to draw from their own knowledge as they prepare to support working couples.

CNST775E
Advanced Topics in Transpersonal Psychology (2.0)
This course serves as an intermediate and advanced examination of central concepts, theories, practices and applications of transpersonal psychology. In particular, students are exposed to intermediate and advanced models of assessment, clinical case conceptualization, and treatment methods to enhance their clinical effectiveness. Students will learn how to assess and formulate a case using methods of mind/body assessment. Students will also practice using new clinical skills such as self-hypnosis and biofeedback training. It is delivered in a hybrid format, partially online and partially in residence.

CNST780
Therapy with Children & Adolescents (2.0)
This course focuses on essentials of therapy with children, adolescents, and the family system in which they live. Students have the opportunity to explore and practice directive and non-directive treatment interventions while examining issues such as emotional age, nervous system regulation, and brain development. The therapist’s role and use of mindfulness, emotional congruence, and attunement are also addressed. Students have the opportunity to explore specific topics such as aggression, art, sand, puppets, and family play. Adoption, ADD and ADHD, trauma, sensory processing issues, addiction/cutting, and other issues commonly related to children and teens are also covered. Prerequisite: CNST620.

CNST782W
Approaches to Couples Counseling (1.0)
Intensive two-day workshop featuring various methods of couples counseling: Imago; existential; Gottman; object relations; and other approaches. One approach will be featured each semester-topics to be announced. Both didactic information and experiential exercises are presented, including concrete and effective tools for working with couples. Students gain confidence in their ability to understand and deal with relationship dynamics, including their origins in early childhood. Prerequisite: CNST631.

CNST790
Counseling Practicum (3.0)
Required of all second-year students, the counseling practicum provides for the continued development of counseling skills through fieldwork at a community agency with on-site consultation and supervision. The practicum is designed to provide a supportive and instructional forum for students’ initial experiences working with clients in community settings. Students also study ethical guidelines relating to the counseling profession. The course includes secondary group supervision to support the practicum fieldwork experience. In secondary group supervision, students discuss professional and personal issues as they relate to their development as beginning counselors. Discussion topics include client populations served, client transference and therapist countertransference, case presentations, agency structure and organization, and community resources. Prerequisite: CNST661 or CNSW661.

CNST790E
Counseling Practicum (3.0)
Required of all second-year students, the counseling practicum provides for the continued development of counseling skills through fieldwork at a community agency with on-site consultation and supervision. The practicum is designed to provide a supportive and instructional forum for students’ initial experiences working with clients in community settings. Students also study ethical guidelines relating to the counseling profession. The course includes secondary group supervision to support the practicum fieldwork experience. In secondary group supervision, students discuss professional and personal issues as they relate to their development as beginning counselors. Discussion topics include client populations served, client transference and therapist countertransference, case presentations, agency structure and organization, and community resources. Prerequisite: CNST661E or CNSW661E.
CNST791
Advanced Child & Adolescent Therapy (1.0)
This advanced course for working with children, adolescents, and their families focuses on turning the theory of previous classes into the practical. Many case studies and demonstrations with class members as family members are used. Students receive the opportunity to practice with other students as well as present their own “cases.” The instructor uses a model that integrates developmental process, Gestalt, psychodrama, and family therapy. Prerequisite: CNST780.

CNST877
Extended Internship Placement (0.5)
The purpose of this course is to provide continued clinical support and guidance to students who have not completed their required clinical internship hours. This course is required for any student who has completed CNSM871 or CNSA871, and is enrolled in (or has completed) CNSM891 or CNSA891, but has more than 50 hours left of clinical internship to complete by the last day of classes in the spring semester.

CNST609
Wilderness Therapy Intensive: Introduction to Wilderness Therapy (2.0)
The distinct disciplines that define Wilderness Therapy in the Transpersonal Counseling Psychology program are examined. We explore how diverse disciplines can be combined in an effective counseling model that serves people and environment. Students gain understanding of how their personalities and experience influence their role as therapists. The class format is a combination of experiential activities, lectures, discussion, and reflection. WT only. Field fees.

CNST627
Contemplative Perspectives & Practice (1.0)
The course supports students in continuing their training in mindfulness practice and explores the use of contemplative practice in the context of personal development and working with others, particularly in wilderness settings. In addition to group sitting practice, students engage in several periods of extended silent activity in order to deepen mindfulness in wilderness settings. WT only.

CNST629
Family Systems Interventions: Equine-Assisted Settings (2.0)
This course examines the clinical applications of family systems and theoretical knowledge in wilderness therapy, with a focus on equine-assisted settings. Students experience various interventions and develop skill through hands-on practice. Specific family issues [e.g. divorce, blended families, abuse] are explored using family systems approaches. Students select one family therapy approach for more in-depth study. WT only. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW708. WT only.

CNST631
Counseling & Helping Relationships I: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other. WT only.

CNST661
Counseling & Helping Relationships II: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (3.0)
This course provides a general framework for understanding and practicing counseling and consultation, including an understanding of counseling in a multicultural society. Crisis intervention and suicide prevention models are introduced, including the use of psychological first aid strategies. Counseling practice is founded on mindfulness and transpersonal perspectives that emphasize wellness and prevention as primary counseling goals. Other topics covered include a history of the profession; theoretical orientations including family systems, ethics, and counseling skills; and the development and stages of a therapeutic relationship. Videotaped practice sessions demonstrate the development of students’ professional skills, knowledge, and personal growth, as well as their developing awareness of the relationship between self and other. WT only. Prerequisite: CNSW631.

CNST707
Special Populations Interventions: Wilderness Therapy Settings (2.0)
This course explores therapeutic interventions, primarily from adventure therapy and ecotherapy. Focus is on issues related to trauma and addictions/substance abuse. We examine various models of addiction recovery, specifically as they apply to diverse populations. Learning happens initially through demonstration and participation, followed by students practicing with peers. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW708.

CNST708
Outdoor Skills I: Equine, Mountains, Climbing, Canyons, and Ropes Course (2.0)
Students learn and practice basic outdoor skills for backcountry travel and camping, review physical and emotional risk-management techniques, and learn how to logistically prepare food and gear for an expedition. Students learn technical and ecological identification skills associated with a variety of outdoor settings and seasons. Field fee. Prerequisite: CNSW661.
CNSW711
Career Development I: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (1.5)
This course addresses career counseling, career planning and development, and adult transition from a holistic and transpersonal point of view. Students learn the central theories of career development. Key assessment instruments and techniques for life/career planning and decision-making are reviewed. Career counseling skills and processes are explored, including those applicable to specific populations. The course explores the interrelationships between work, family, and other life roles, including the role of diversity and gender in career development. Ethical and legal considerations, career development programming and evaluation, occupational and labor market information, and web-based resources for career information systems are studied. Taught as a four-day intensive. WT only.

CNSW719
Ecopsychology: Transpersonal Perspectives (2.0)
Transpersonal psychology in the field of ecopsychology is addressed. Major themes of ecopsychology we explore include the human/nature relationship; disconnection from the natural world; practices for reestablishing and deepening our connection with the natural world; and ecotherapy. Students are exposed to diverse perspectives in the field and are asked to develop and articulate their own point of view. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW708. WT only.

CNSW728
Outdoor Skills II: Horticulture, River, and Rites of Passage (2.0)
In the second semester of this yearlong class, students continue to hone outdoor skills associated with specific settings. Topics include physical and emotional safety; risk management; technical skills applicable to the setting; equipment use and maintenance; planning and organization; and travel and living within the setting. Additional focus is placed on trip planning for specific counseling populations. Prerequisite: CNSW708. WT field fee.

CNSW731
Career Development II: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (1.5)
This course addresses career counseling, career planning and development, and adult transition from a holistic and transpersonal point of view. Students learn the central theories of career development. Key assessment instruments and techniques for life/career planning and decision-making are reviewed. Career counseling skills and processes are explored, including those applicable to specific populations. The course explores the interrelationships between work, family, and other life roles including the role of diversity and gender in career development. Ethical and legal considerations, career development programming and evaluation, occupational and labor market information, and web-based resources for career information systems are studied. Prerequisite: CNSW711. WT only.

CNSW743
Transitions Throughout the Lifespan (3.0)
An examination of counseling individuals through major life transitions. The modality of rites of passage, its appropriateness with both adolescent and adult clients, and its cross-cultural dimensions are a focus. Students gain firsthand experience with ceremony, ritual, expressive arts, and vision fasts in natural settings as modalities for addressing transitions. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW728. WT only.

CNSW751
Group Counseling: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (2.0)
Group Counseling I provides theoretical and experiential understandings of group purpose, development, dynamics, counseling theories, approaches, methods, and skills. Studies include comparative models, evaluation methods, research, professional preparation, ethical and legal considerations, and applications for working creatively in outdoor and wilderness settings. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW708.

CNSW761
Group Counseling II: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (3.0)
Group Counseling II provides further theoretical and experiential understanding of group purpose, development, dynamics, counseling theories, approaches, methods, and skills. Studies include comparative models, evaluation methods, research, professional preparation, ethical and legal considerations, and applications for working creatively in outdoor and wilderness settings. Must be taken concurrently with CNSW728.

CNSW790
Counseling Practicum (3.0)
Required of all second-year students, the counseling practicum provides for the continued development of counseling skills through fieldwork at a community agency with on-site consultation and supervision. The practicum is designed to provide a supportive and instructional forum for students’ initial experiences working with clients in community settings. Students also study ethical guidelines relating to the counseling profession. The course includes secondary group supervision to support the practicum fieldwork experience. In secondary group supervision, students discuss professional and personal issues as they relate to their development as beginning counselors. Discussion topics include client populations served, client transference and therapist countertransference, case presentations, agency structure and organization, and community resources. Prerequisite: CNST661.

CNSW801
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice I: Transprsnl Wilderness Therapy (2.5)
Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice supports the learning experience of students enrolled in internship placement. The class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference. Prerequisite: CNST790.

CNSW802
Professional Counseling Orientation & Ethical Practice II: Transprensrnl Wilderness Therapy (2.5)
This course completes the learning experience of students enrolled in the internship placement. The Professional Counseling Orientation and Ethical Practice class is designed to provide an instructional and supportive forum for students practicing counseling in agency settings. The class provides an understanding of professional roles, organizations, and credentialing. Students are exposed to the ethical, legal, and advocacy considerations of counseling. The history and philosophy of the counseling profession are considered in relation to current trends and case studies. We are concerned with professional, theoretical, and personal issues related to the internship, such as therapeutic technique and style, diversity issues, transference, and countertransference.

CNSW871
Internship I: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (2.0)
The student works a total of 700 hours in community agency settings. Prerequisite: CNST790.

CNSW891
Internship II: Transpersonal Wilderness Therapy (2.0)
A continuation of CNSW871. WT only.