

Applied Ethics and Service Learning

For third-year MDiv students, this class provides ongoing instruction, direction, and guidance for student fieldwork, with special emphasis on the application of ethical principles in the context of ministry in the community. Students and instructors meet weekly, focusing on the nature and meaning of doing community-based and spiritually engaged fieldwork in the arenas of pastoral care and change agency. The Naropa Chaplaincy Project is the site for the service-learning aspect of the course.

Course Number: REL804

Unit: 3.0

Program: GRAD/UNDG Religs Studies